Historical Firehouses of Brooklyn
Photographs by Stephen Healy

The New York City Fire Museum is proud to present “Historic Firehouses of Brooklyn.” This photo series, shot by retired FDNY Lieutenant Stephen Healy, captures the architectural beauty of some of Brooklyn’s finest firehouses built from the 1800s to early 1900s. Although they are functional buildings that require little need for embellishment, these firehouses display a high level of craftsmanship and design that give each a distinctive personality while still remaining undeniably a firehouse.

“Historic Firehouses of Brooklyn” is in limited engagement and is installed in the museum’s third floor gallery. The New York City Fire Museum is located at 278 Spring Street in Manhattan (between Hudson and Varick Streets) and is open 10 am to 5 pm seven days a week.
