From the creation of the first FDNY band in 1900 through the present day, members of the Department have used music to celebrate the achievements of the Department in parades and exhibitions, and to mourn their losses at funerals. The first band in the Department was formed in 1900, but only lasted a few years. In 1913, a full marching band was organized, and appeared in parades throughout the city, while also traveling the country performing in competitions. In 1920, a Bugle and Drum Corp was formed and coexisted with the marching band. With the formation of the Emerald Society (the Department’s Fraternal Irish Organization) in 1956, bagpipes came to forefront of the Department's musical efforts, and remain symbolic of the Department's musical endeavors. The FDNY Pipes and Drums was formed in 1962 and exists proudly to this day, performing in parades and dedications, while also mourning every fallen member at funerals. The group’s highest calling came following the attacks on September 11, 2001, when the band played at nearly 500 funerals. The FDNY Pipes and Drums has a rich heritage, storied history and has contributed to the Department as well as the City of New York and beyond. Its dedicated members truly represent the best of New York and the FDNY.
WABC-TV is the most-watched local television station in New York and the U.S., recognized for its strong commitment to local news, weather, and community service. The WABC team consistently demonstrates excellence in broadcasting, significantly contributing to the well-being and safety of the greater New York City area.

The New York City Fire Museum commends the WABC team for their remarkable contribution to public safety through life-saving public service campaigns. Their initiatives have served as a crucial platform for fire and life safety experts to reach a wide audience. Notably, the Operation 7 Save A Life community service program has been particularly successful, advancing public safety for over 25 years.

This collaboration with WABC has enabled the New York City Fire Museum to deliver vital fire safety messages, potentially saving lives and safeguarding property. It has also provided an opportunity to honor the courageous legacy of the city's first responders. Furthermore, we applaud WABC for their continuous support of the Museum and the media coverage they have provided at our previous golf outings. Their dedication to public service and community involvement sets a commendable example, and we appreciate their ongoing partnership.
For the third consecutive year, we are delighted to announce Mike Marza as the evening's Emcee. Mike Marza, a charming and charismatic American Emmy Award-winning journalist and news personality, serves as a general assignment reporter and fill-in anchor for WABC-TV, Channel 7 Eyewitness News in New York.

Justin Moose, currently ranked #6 in the world among World Long Drive competitors, will be participating in a fundraising competition. Do you think you have what it takes to outperform the professional?

NYCFM Mission

The mission of the New York City Fire Museum is to collect, preserve and present the history and cultural heritage of the fire service of New York and to provide fire prevention and safety education to the public, especially children.

The New York City Fire Museum attracts 40,000 visitors a year from all over America and almost every country in the world. Retired FDNY firefighters proudly volunteer to relate stories of New York City's "Bravest" and with the help of the Museum's stunning collection, tell how they earned that distinction.

A vital component of the Museum is its Fire Safety Education Program. Working with the FDNY Fire Safety Education Unit, groups of children participate in a 3-step program comprised of an age-appropriate video and lesson from an FDNY Fire Safety Educator, a history tour, and a facilitated experience of crawling out from under a cloud of artificial smoke to learn how to save themselves and their loved ones in case of a fire. Approximately 10,000 school children per year participate in this program.
